
Neighborhood Cigar \herf?

Posted by John - 2008/08/12 10:39

It would be cool if there were a few other Cigar aficionados in the neighborhood...

I occasionally go to Loco's pub in Alpharetta to enjoy a beverage and a cigar.

Another fairly local place is Winston's down Sandy Plains road.

Both locations are within about 15 miles, offer reasonable beverage and food prices, and, permit Cigars!

PS - I'll likely be stopping at one of these locations tonight. If one is closer to where YOU (fellow neighborhood smoker...) work than the other, feel free to reply here and we might just be able to gather together!

John

Re:Neighborhood Cigar \herf?

Posted by NoBS - 2008/08/13 16:51

A couple years ago I was spending way too much time at Locos. I think I gained about 10 lbs that summer pounding down black & blue burgers, fries and Sam Smith Oatmeal Stouts.

Re:Neighborhood Cigar \herf?

Posted by John - 2008/08/13 22:26

Yes, easy to do... easy to do.

I restrict myself to 10 wings or something like that, and 2 or 3 beers while enjoying a cigar...

Re:Neighborhood Cigar \herf?

Posted by NoBS - 2008/08/15 08:06

John, if you are going to be around tomorrow night stop by 5174 around seven and we'll have that cigar and beer.

Re:Neighborhood Cigar \herf?

Posted by admin - 2008/08/15 08:15

As in Saturday?

Might just be able to do that... have to check with the BOSS...B)
